

THE STRATEGIC DYNAMICS OF LATIN AMERICAN TRADE

Section I: Theories of International Trade and the Case of the Americas

Diverging Trade Strategies in Latin America

Vinod Aggarwal and Ralph Espach, University of California, Berkeley

Interests, Strategic Environment, and Latin American Trade Strategies

Sylvia Maxfield, Simmons Graduate School of Management

Legitimacy and Soft Power in Latin American Foreign Relations

Joseph S. Tulchin, Woodrow Wilson International Center

Section II: The Political Economy of International Trade in the Americas

Latin America and the FTAA: Collective Action or Collective Apathy?

Carol Wise, Johns Hopkins University

Perspectives on Regionalism in Latin America

José Salazar-Xirinachs, Organization of American States

Section III: Comparing Trade Strategies in the Americas

The Political Economy of Mexico's Trade Policy: Regionalism as a Barrier for Further Liberalization

Antonio Ortiz Mena, CIDE, Mexico City

Chilean Regional Trade Policy

Amb. Osvaldo Rosales, Director of International Economic Policies at the Chilean Ministry of Foreign Relations

Regionalism and Transregionalism: Brazil's International Economic Policy of the 1990s

Pedro da Motta Veiga, Center for the Study of International Trade (FUNCEX), Rio de Janeiro

Comparative Trade Strategies: the Case of Argentina

Roberto Bouzas, FLACSO, Buenos Aires

Trade Strategies in the Context of Economic Regionalism: the Case of Mercosur

Alcides Costa Vaz: University of Brasilia